ARRIVAL TO

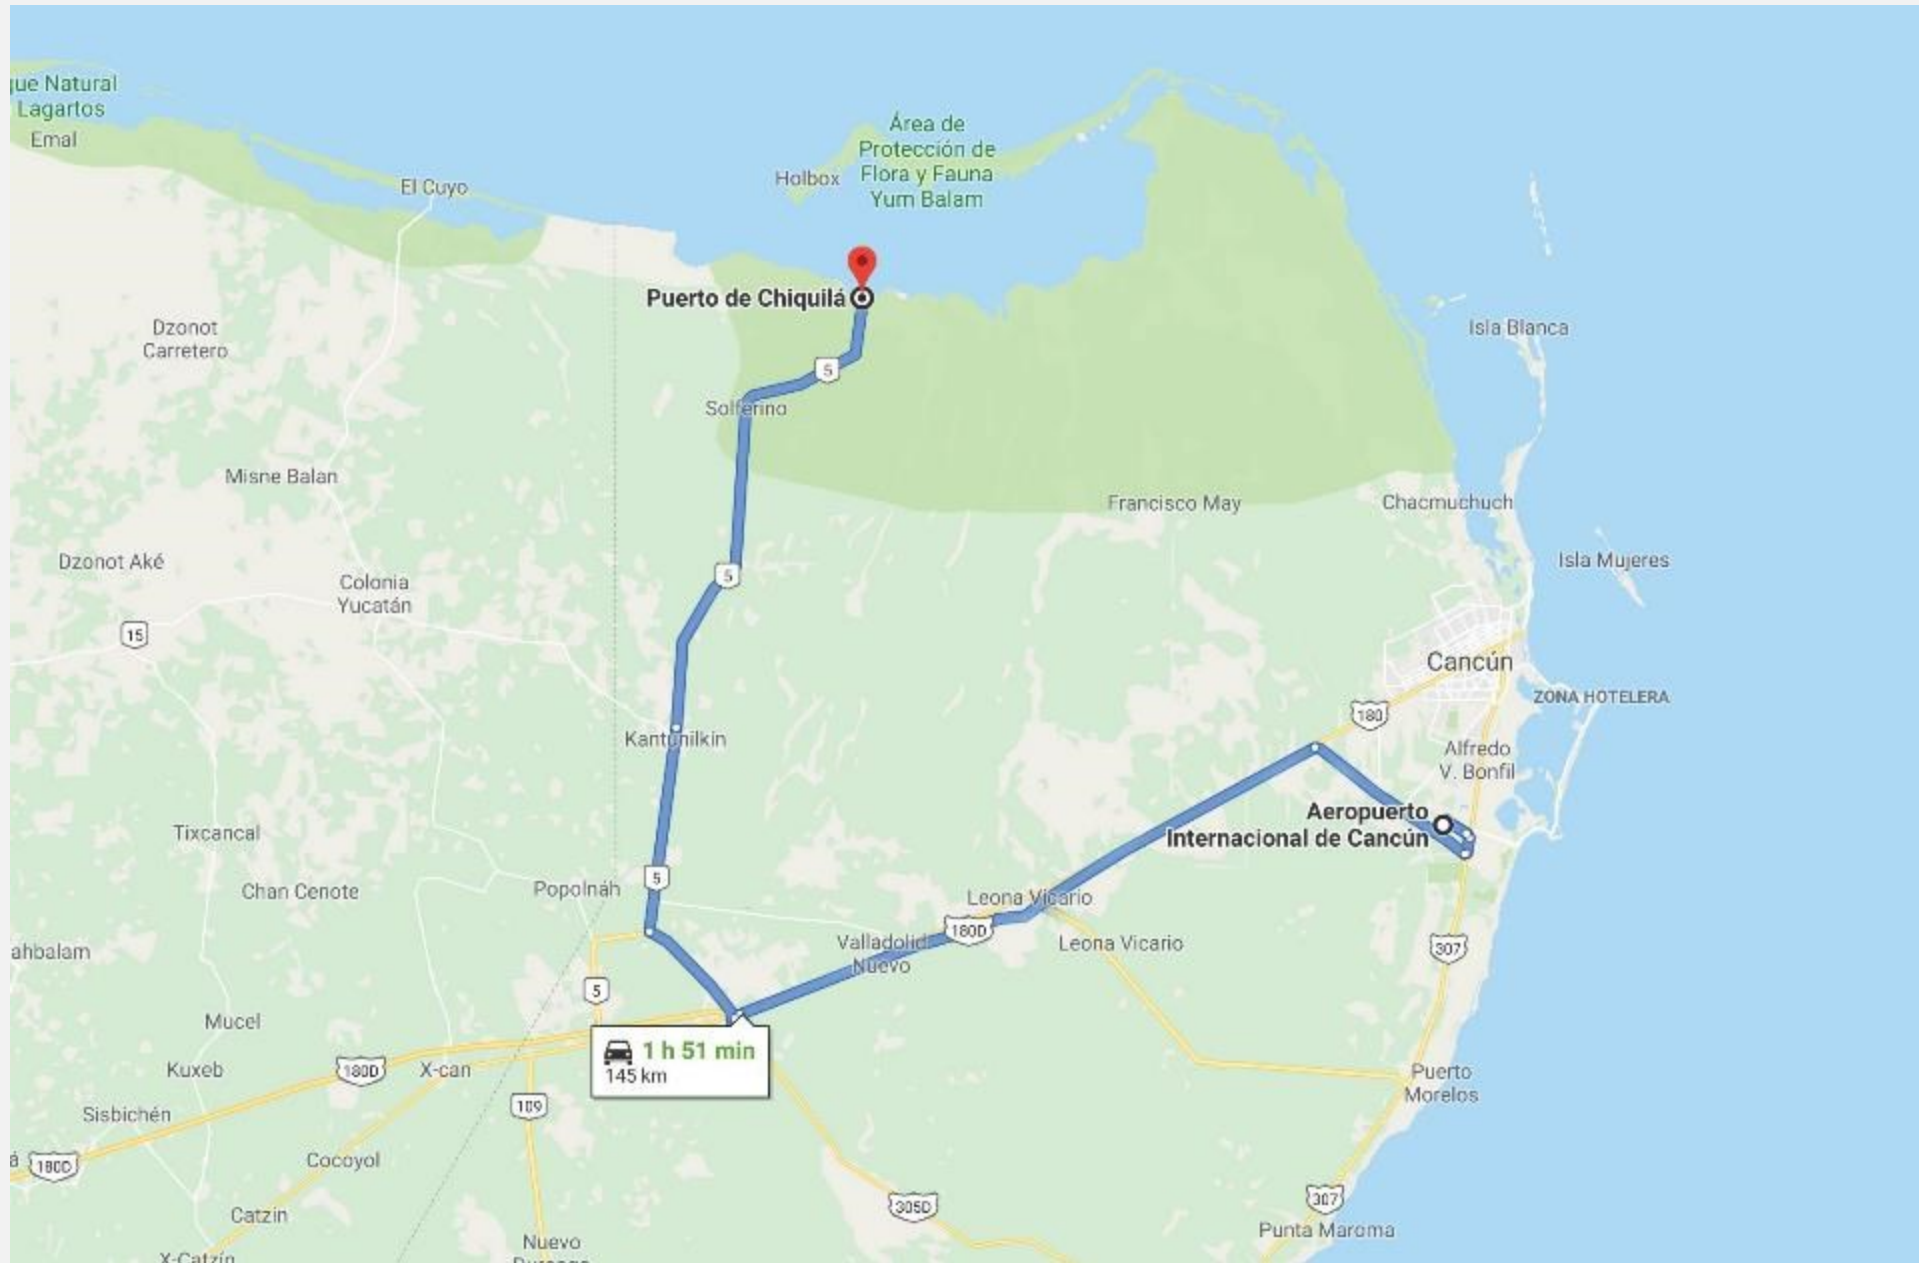

HOLBOX – MEXICO

Bohemian beauty and exclusive tranquillity

Holbox (meaning “black hole” in Mayan) is Mexico’s largest ecological reserve, with nearly 75 per cent of the island being a jungle of wild groves and empty beaches. Located in the Mexican state of Quintana Roo, on the north coast of the Yucatan Peninsula

It is approximately 41.84 kilometres (26.00 miles) long and 1.5 kilometers (0.9 miles) wide, and it is separated from the mainland by 10 km of shallow lagoon that is home to flamingos, pelicans and other rich birdlife. Holbox Island is part of the municipality of Lazaro Cardenas and also part of the Yum-Balam Biosphere Reserve.

Colourful, serene and surrounded by turquoise waters, Holbox Island stuns for its unexpected vibrancy combined with a tranquil atmosphere

Ser Casasandra

The whole concept at Ser CasaSandra is to relax, disconnect with the stresses of daily life and to reconnect with oneself by restoring balance and harmony. Nature, art, music, the environment and spirituality will all play a part of your visit

The philosophy at Ser CasaSandra is to look after and give back to the island of Holbox - its traditions, its wildlife, its local economy and its native people are always at the forefront of the ideas and experiences conceived at the hotel

The design of Ser CasaSandra has been overseen by Sandra Perez herself. She has handpicked different pieces from artisans from all over the world while also maintaining local integrity. The architectural design uses local, Solferino wood as the structural basis of the property. These pieces can also be seen in the soft refurbishment of many of the rooms. Hammocks pepper the shaded balconies of thatched huts. Inside, the rooms are restful havens from the scorch of the sun. White muslin drapes hang down from above while terracotta floor tiles are cooling underfoot. The walls are speckled with original paintings by the eponymous owner and a collection of like-minded local artists. It's part beachside retreat, part hip East London gallery. There is also a brand new boutique Arte Sano at the hotel where guests can purchase these items.

EXPERIENCES

Holbox is a fishermen's island where wanderers retire in their hammocks at sunset. The magic of the place allows to discover reserved islands, the sighting of more than 150 species of birds, flamingos, sea turtles, giant stingrays. Travel to the Mayan ruins, a tour through the jungle walking or by canoe to know the culture of this great civilization.

In some season of the year in the new moon nights, warm waters are visited by some micro-organisms like the plankton, that emit the bioluminescence; It is the ideal moment then, to enjoy a natural spell that illuminates the blue waters. With this phenomenon, comes the visit of the largest fish in the world: the whale shark, swimming with it becomes a torrent of excitement and adrenaline.

A large whale shark is swimming in the clear blue ocean. The shark's body is covered in a pattern of white spots and stripes. In the background, several divers are visible, swimming and observing the shark. The water is bright blue with gentle ripples.

Every year, from mid-May to mid-September, the largest aggregations of whale sharks in the world are found off the coast of Holbox Island

Chichén itzá

An aerial photograph of a cenote, a natural swimming hole, surrounded by a dense, lush tropical forest. The water is clear and blue, reflecting the sunlight. A wooden walkway made of planks leads from the forest down to the edge of the cenote. The surrounding vegetation is thick and green, with various types of trees and shrubs. The overall scene is serene and natural.

WEDDINGS

Love, according to Thich Nhat Hanh, is always for the other. And to be in the most beautiful way the individual needs, without judgment and compassion. Marriage is the path of surrender; to share the light and shadow that we carry inside; to see ourselves in the other as a reflection of what we love unconditionally.

It is sacred, for Ser CasaSandra, to support them so that this union can take place in harmony and joy.
