The pristine and authentic gem halfway between
The Cinque Terre and Portofino

AUTHENTIC LIVING

Moneglia: The Village

Halfway between The Cinque Terre and Portofino is an hidden gem, already famous at Roman times, now very appreciated by Italians and Europeans, but mostly unknown overseas. With its cultural events, independent retailers, waterfront, sandy or rocky beaches, bars and restaurants, it belongs to the “Baie del Levante” also known as the “Small Cinque Terre” (Moneglia, Deiva Marina, Framura, Bonassola and Levanto).

Here there are plenty of non-jammed hiking trails with dramatic coastal views, possibility of shopping the minor Italian brands, stop at a bakery for a taste of Genoese focaccia, stroll with an ice-cream in your hands, enjoy a glass of local wine in front of the sunset and other crowd.-free experiences: in a nutshell breath the real Italian Dolcevita!
